

Daniel: So Hana, tell me, do you cook _____ (more / much)?

Hana: Yes, I always cook. I often cook with _____ (my / me) roommate, and we always _____ (make / making) Chinese or Japanese food. How about you?

Daniel: Well, I don't really cook _____ (this / that) often because I'm really busy during the week, so I always just _____ (get / go) something at the shop and eat that. But _____ (during / while) the weekends, I always cook during the weekends because I really like _____ (make / making) food, so that's what I do.

Hana: So, _____ (do / does) you ever eat out?

Daniel: Only _____ (occasions / occasionally) because I'm really busy during the week, and I _____ (prefer / preference) cooking during the weekends, so not really often. I don't go _____ (up / out) really often to eat, but whenever I'm _____ (tired / tire), and I don't have time to cook during _____ (a / the) weekend, I go and eat out with _____ (the / a) friend. So how about you?

Hana: Well, I always _____, so I normally go _____ (an / and) eat out during the weekend _____ (who / with) my friends or family.

Daniel: So, do you _____ (even / ever) buy take-away?

Hana: No, I _____ (never / ever). Normally when I go out to eat, I like to sit and _____ (enjoy / enjoy) my food. How about you?

Daniel: Well, that's really nice. _____ (Of / Or) course, I do like to sit and enjoy my food, _____ (but / not) I have to admit that occasionally I have to buy take-away, _____ (especially / special) when I'm coming late from work, and I'm _____ (driving / driver). I'm so hungry that _____ (must / most) of the time, I don't really make it home, so I have to buy _____ (somewhere / something) and eat it on my way, and that's a _____ (shame / shop), but that's the way it _____ (is / as).

And do you usually have people _____ (over / out) for dinner?

Hana: Yes, I sometimes _____ (do / go). I really like cooking so occasionally I _____ (inviting / invite) my friends over and cook for _____ (them / there) or we all cook together. How _____ (about / around) you?

Daniel: Not really. I do _____ (love / live) cooking, but the problem is my place is reallyb _____ (small / smell), so even though I want to _____ (improve / invite) my friends, Ib never do it because my place would only _____ (fat / fit) one or two people, so, unfortunately,b
I _____ (never / ever) have my friends over for _____ (dinner / diner).

Listen Online - Check your answers!

